BATTERY AND REGIMENT HOME

Howitzers and Soldier Lads of Seventieth Had Excellent Time.

After a most enjoyable week's encamp ment at Camp, William E. Simons, Ocear View, the Richmond Howitzers, Battery "A," of the First Battallon of Artillery of Virginia, returned to Richmond Sun day night, arriving in a special car attuched to the regular Chesapeake and Ohio fast Old Point express, which reached Richmond about 7 o'clock. While on their encampment the Howitzers were the recipients of a number of complimentary functions, such as an informal banquet, tendered the Howitzers by the Norfolk Blues on Thursday night, a watermelor Dr. and Major James W. Henson on Friday morning, and lastly, an oyster reast, tendered by the Norfolk Blues on Saturday afternoon. At the banquet given on Thursday night, Sergeant McLean on Thursday night, sergential factors acting as toastmaster, presented Captain Charles I. Bland, of Portsmouth, who was the orator of the evening, and who extended the Howitzers a most cordial invitation to eat, drink and be merry, to invitation to eat, drink and be merry, to which Capitain W. M. Myers, of the Howitzers, in his usual pleasant manner, thanked the Blues most heartly for the many courtesies shown the Howitzers since the beginning of the encampment. During the course of the evening, in an effort to convey to Major W. E. Simons, the commanding officer of the buttallon, a proper expression of the high regard in which the major is held, Capitaln Mc-Keeling proposed that masmuch as Major Simons was absent on account of sickness, that a stleng togs, with heads meavered. that a silent toast with heads uncovered drank with emply glasses, to show

Clad in kainki and marching to the martial beat of a drum corps, they turned up Eighth Street with the mien of veterans. A detachment remained at "Camp Jackson" to keep things in order till the arrival of the Bues Wednesday.

Colonel Dempsey, United States army, says the location at Busic is ideal for an encampment. This is verified by every man in the regiment. Much practical instruction was derived from the outing.

It is no secret that if all the incidents of camp life could be put into words an 8 mo. volume would not contain them. Blues to Leave.

LOUISVILLE, KY., August 21.—The Western National Bank's suspension has been anticipated, for on May 29th the bank showed a reserve of only 14 per cent, and its business has fallen off steadily since then; in fact, the bank stock has within the last few days fallen from 167 to as low as 35.

Best Vaudeville Acts of Season This Week.

The Casino this week has the best vandeville bill it has had this season. There was quite a variety in the programme, the numbers ranging all the way from trick dogs to opera.

Bevan, Desmond and Lingard sang selections from some of the operas, and were well received, the audience manifesting its appreciation of a number quite out of the ordinary set of a vandeville bill. The singers possessed good volces and used them to advantage.

Stewart Barnes, a monologue artist, won the hit of the evening. His work was entirely different from that of the average "performer" in his line of business. He was compelled to decline to respond to further encores.

The Lutz Brothers, as the bill stated, presented a novelty act that certainly deserved the name. One of the brothers is an armless wonder, and uses his feet with more skill than could most men the hands. His expert rifle shooting was a feature of the act.

The Searls and Vlolet Allen Company presented a fast working skil entitled "The New Reporter," and furnished much annusement with the nonsense they offered.

(Specfal to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., August 21.—
Captain J. E. B. Stuart, collector of customs here, son of the famous Confederate cavalry leader of the same name and aspirant for the Vice-Presidency, to-day acted as a customs inspector on the piers here.

A short time ago Collector Stuart removed four Democratic inspectors, claiming that there had been a falling off in the business of the port and their services were not needed. The Champer of Commerce took the mutter up, that by compiling figures showed that the exports had increased 21 per cent, in the same time.

To-day three ships came in, and after sending clerks from the office and laborers to the piers as inspectors, it still was necessary for the collector himself to go down and act in the same capacity. Then there were not enough inspectors to famile the business property, and a tof fright was left out in the rain to light.

At the outbreak of the Civil War he cast his lot with his native South, and with his friends and countrymen who nerved the hardships of war, enlisted in and became captain of the "Smyth Dragons," whi did service under that famous cavalry leader, the late Flizhugh Lee. At the close of the war he returned to his native home and resumed the work of his chosen profession with his father, the late James W. Sheffey. In 1898 he was elected judge of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit by the Legislature of Virginia, then, composed of Smyth, Grayson, Washington and Russell counties. In this position he perhaps did his best work. He presided over his circuit with dignity and ability, so much so as to gain not only esteem of the bar of his circuit, but littigants as well.

In the death of Judge Sheffey a good man has fallen, and all will mourn his loss with bowed heads and in sorrow.
